Each of Gatwick's two terminals has a short-term parking lot designed for stays of up to five hours. These car parks are located directly across from the terminals, connected by a covered walkway only a few metres from the building entrance. Rates are charged for the first 30 minutes, and every hour after that.

Gatwick also offers a convenient Fast Track parking service in each of the two short-term car parks. Although the rates are significantly higher than in the regular short-term parking lots, your vehicle is kept in a special covered lot with its own quick link to the terminals. A meet and greet service similar to valet parking is also offered at both the North and South terminals. A driver will meet you at a prearranged time at the Departures entrance and take your car to a special secured car park.

Although you can simply show up at the airport and park your car it is suggested that you pre-book your parking online. Online pre-booking is usually cheaper as most car parks offer special discounts if you reserve a parking space ahead of time. If you are travelling during a peak travel season such as Christmas or the summer holiday period, online pre-booking can potentially save you the trouble of searching for an elusive parking space.
